TOGETHER, WE ARE DECLARING TRUTH AND BECOMING ALIVE IN CHRIST.

Across the communities we serve, many children arrive carrying stories shaped by fear, rejection, and loss. At Kids Alive International, we believe those stories are not the end. We believe that when truth is spoken with love, healing can begin—and hope can take root.

Every child is seen by God, deeply loved, and created with purpose. When children are surrounded by safe relationships, compassionate care, and consistent reminders of who they are in Christ, something powerful happens. Shame loosens its grip. Fear begins to fade. Identity is restored.

We see this transformation unfold as children learn to replace harmful messages from their past with life-giving truth—truth that reminds them they belong, they are valued, and they are not alone. Over time, these truths shape how children see themselves, how they relate to others, and how they imagine their future.

This transformation is made possible through partnership. Together, we are helping children step forward—restored, loved, and whole—into a future marked by faith, resilience, and hope. And as their lives are renewed, families are strengthened and communities begin to flourish.

I Am Chosen

God sees me, knows me, and wants me. (John 15:16)

I Am God's Masterpiece

I am created with beauty, value, and purpose. (Eph. 2:10)

I Am Clean

Through Jesus, I am forgiven and made new. (1 John 1:9)

I Am Powerful

In Christ, I have strength for today and hope for the future. (Phil. 4:13)

I Am God's Child

I belong to a loving Father who delights in me. (John 1:12)

WHERE JUSTICE MEETS Healing

Dear Friends,

As we reflect on all that God accomplished through your partnership with Kids Alive International in 2025, our hearts are filled with gratitude—for His faithfulness, and for your partnership that made this work possible. Together, we witnessed lives transformed as children around the world moved from trauma to triumph, from fear toward hope, and from isolation into belonging.

We see a tragic truth around the world. Trauma is transferred unless we can transform it into triumph through healing and justice. The Bible tells us that God binds up the brokenhearted; that Jesus came to set free those imprisoned by sin, and gives sight to those who cannot see. When children are abused, they find themselves in prisons of fear, mistrust, anger, self-hate, and depression. God has placed a call on Kids Alive to be His agents of healing and freedom into a thriving life.

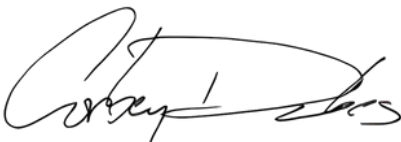

Because of your faithful generosity, Omar found trust again in Lebanon. Maureen found her voice and leadership in Kenya. Monica was seen, protected, and restored in Zambia. Luana was heard and affirmed in Peru. Rachel in Haiti found steady support in her season of need. And Valeria reclaimed her childhood in Guatemala. These are not isolated moments—they are evidence of God at work through your partnership.

This Annual Impact Report tells the story of that transformation. It reflects how your gifts restore children who have suffered abuse; how your gifts bring healing justice to them and consequences to abusers. Your gifts are doing the important work of preventing abuse through work in schools and strengthening families.

Around the world, the stories in these pages testify to God's redemptive power and your faithful commitment to walk alongside vulnerable children. Because of your partnership with us—with faith, generosity, and love—together, we are transforming trauma to triumph and restoring what was once broken.

On behalf of the children, families, and staff around the world, thank you for believing that every child is seen by God, created with purpose, and worthy of a future filled with hope in Christ.

Gratefully,

Corbey Dukes
President & CEO

TOGETHER ON MISSION:

Throughout 2025, Go Teams played a vital role in advancing Kids Alive International's mission across the globe. 47 Go Teams—representing churches, schools, universities, and medical partners—served alongside Kids Alive staff in the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, and Peru. More than 500 volunteers stepped into communities with humility and purpose, offering their time, skills, encouragement, and faith.

These teams didn't arrive to "fix" or "rescue." They came to walk alongside—to listen, learn, serve, and strengthen the work already taking place. Through shared experiences, prayer, and presence, Go Teams brought renewed energy to local staff, deepened long-term partnerships, and reminded children and families that they are seen, valued, and not alone.

Many teams were made up of students from churches and Christian schools, while others included pastors, worship leaders, medical professionals, and parent-child groups. Across generations and backgrounds, these experiences fostered spiritual growth, lasting relationships, and a deeper understanding of how God is at work through Kids Alive's restorative, trauma-informed care.

"You may think you're going to pour out, but you come back so full. Seeing how God is restoring identity and hope through Kids Alive changed me deeply."

— GO TEAM PARTICIPANT

“What stood out most was the faithfulness of the staff and the joy of the children as they learned songs reminding them of who they are in Christ.”

Story of Impact

WORSHIP AS A PATHWAY TO HEALING

In 2025, a new partnership took root in Lima, Peru between Kids Alive International and Likewise Go, the global outreach branch of Likewise Worship. What began as a simple step of obedience became a powerful testimony to how God uses creativity, truth, and presence to bring healing.

In spring 2025, the Likewise Go team traveled to serve through Gospel-centered music—sharing original songs designed to anchor identity and hope in the hearts of children who have experienced trauma. One such song, “Wonderfully Made,” was written specifically to reflect the identity truths Kids Alive staff teach daily: that every child is known, loved, and created with purpose in Christ.

MUSIC QUICKLY BECAME MORE THAN A LESSON—IT BECAME A SHARED LANGUAGE OF HEALING.

Children and staff alike embraced the song as a reminder of God’s nearness and faithfulness. When the team returned six months later with additional volunteers, instruments, and encouragement, the fruit was unmistakable. The song had become an anthem—sung often, remembered easily, and woven into daily life.

Through worship, partnership, and consistency, God used Go Teams to reinforce truth, strengthen staff, and help children internalize who they are in Christ—long after the teams returned home.

The Impact You are Making NANDI'S JOURNEY

Nandi remembers the prayers—not just spoken, but lived out through the care and encouragement she received at Kids Alive Academy in Zambia. Prayer shaped her daily life, grounding her faith and forming her heart for service.

As Nandi graduates and prepares to pursue her dream of becoming a nurse, those prayers are taking on new meaning. The young girl who once led scripture club and worship is now preparing to bring healing to her community in tangible ways.

At the Academy, Nandi built more than academic foundations. She discovered who she is in Christ—loved, capable, and called. That spiritual grounding will guide her as she steps into university classrooms and, one day, into clinics and hospitals across Zambia.

HER STORY IS ONE OF MANY—EVIDENCE THAT WHEN CHILDREN ARE CONSISTENTLY SUPPORTED, their futures expand beyond what once seemed possible.

LOOKING AHEAD

Because of the faithfulness of Champions, 2025 marked a year of growth, deeper connection, and lasting impact. Children were supported not just for a season, but through meaningful relationships that continue to shape their lives.

As we look toward 2026, we do so with gratitude—for every letter written, every prayer offered, and every child walked alongside. Together, Champions are helping children discover who they are in Christ and step confidently into the future God has prepared for them.

Champions help children know they are chosen, loved, and full of purpose.

AMID CONFLICT IN LEBANON, COMMUNITIES RALLY AROUND CHILDREN & FAMILIES

As conflict escalates across Lebanon, families are facing daily uncertainty while supporting one another in remarkable ways. Bombings have disrupted daily life—schools have closed, travel is limited, and many families remain indoors. Some have opened their homes to relatives fleeing heavily impacted areas.

Despite this, Kids Alive staff and communities continue to care for children with resilience. Programs are adjusting day by day, with some activities paused and others reopening briefly when it is safe.

As displacement grows, Kids Alive is helping provide housing and essential support for families in need, while local partners collaborate to strengthen response efforts. In the midst of instability, communities are standing together—offering care, encouragement, and hope when it is needed most.

Omar's TEARS TURNED INTO TRUST

*pseudonym for safety

Each morning when Omar* entered his classroom at Dar El Awlad School (DEA) in Lebanon, tears streamed down his face. The moment he sat down, a quiet wall seemed to rise between him and the rest of the class. He struggled to participate, to focus, or to join the curiosity of his peers. It wasn't defiance or fear of school. It was a sadness his six-year-old heart did not yet have words to express.

Overwhelmed by the conflict and instability of the Syrian civil war, Omar's family fled to Lebanon in search of safety. Like many families who crossed the border over the past decade, they arrived carrying uncertainty and loss. In Lebanon, they have navigated crowded housing, informal employment, and the difficult work of starting over. It was through this upheaval that Omar came to Dar El Awlad School — a place serving refugee children whose education and sense of stability have been disrupted. Today, his family is rebuilding together, working to create steadiness for their children amid fragile circumstances.

At Dar El Awlad School, teachers recognized that Omar's tears signaled the need for deeper care. DEA is more than a place of academic instruction. It is a restorative learning environment where structured routines, trauma-informed teaching, daily meals, and individualized academic support come together to create safety. Prayer, Bible stories, and gospel conversations are woven naturally into the day, grounding children in the truth that they are seen, deeply loved by Jesus, and never alone — even when life feels uncertain.

The school also maintains close connection with families, offering encouragement and steady presence that strengthens both the classroom and the home. For families navigating displacement, that consistency matters deeply.

FOR OMAR, THAT STEADY CARE BECAME A TURNING POINT.

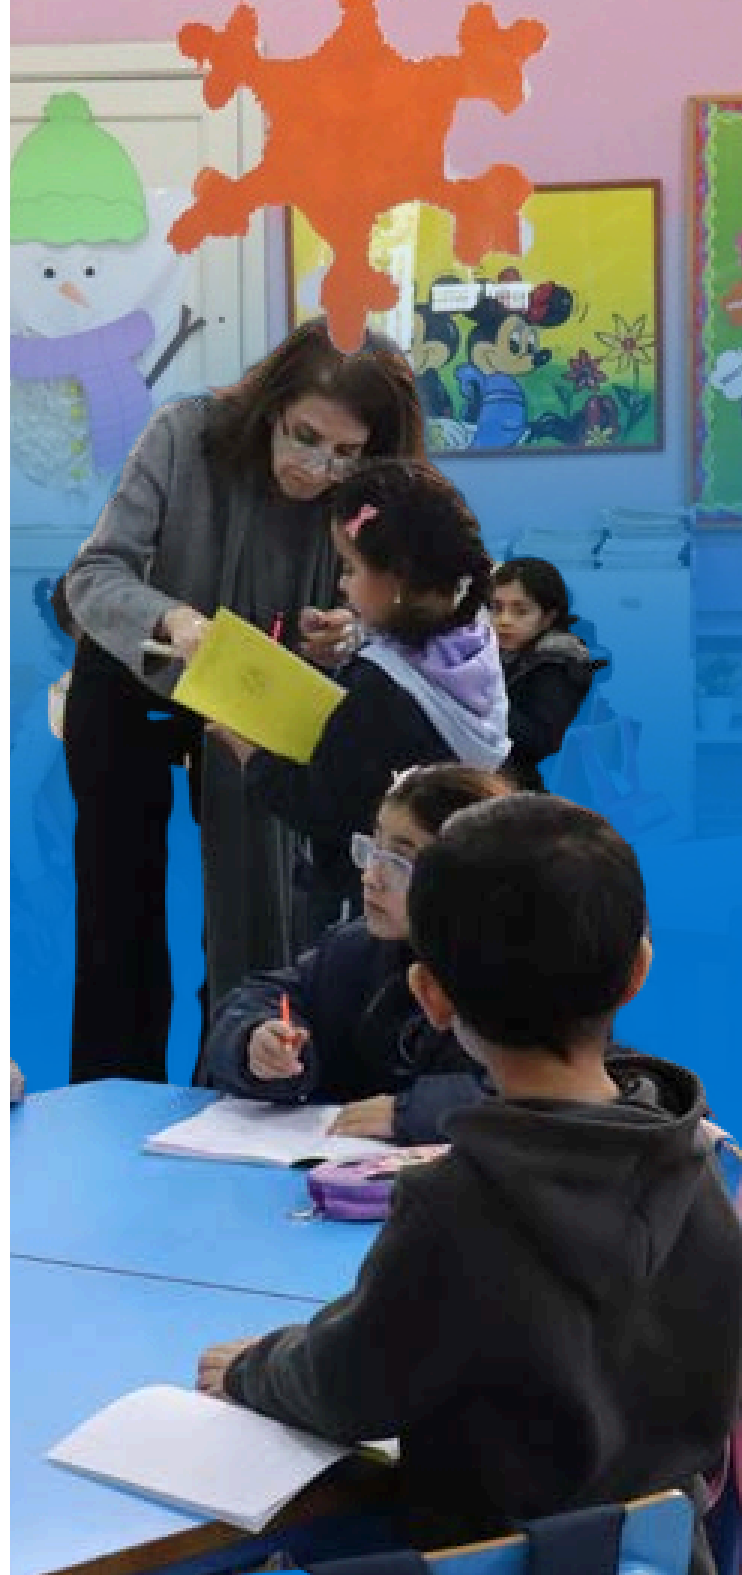

One day, as he sat at his table in tears, a classmate quietly suggested to the teacher, “Miss, why don’t you pray to Jesus and He will help him?” Most of the children in this classroom come from Muslim refugee families, and for many, DEA is their first sustained exposure to prayer in Jesus’ name. Day by day, they are learning that God listens and that He cares for them personally.

The teacher later shared, “When we began to pray, every child in the class – without exception – closed their eyes and bowed their heads. And as we prayed, Omar stopped crying.” Cautious but hopeful, she continued watching him closely. Two weeks passed without a single tear. More than that, his whole demeanor changed. He began participating in lessons, smiling, and engaging freely with his peers. The wall that once separated him from learning gradually came down.

Omar’s transformation was not the result of a single moment alone, but the fruit of daily faithfulness – compassionate teachers, structured classrooms, nourishing meals, and the steady reminder that he is known and loved by God. In a school serving largely Muslim refugee families, Dar El Awlad bears witness to Christ through love that perseveres.

Today, Omar participates fully in his classroom community. His story reflects what happens when restorative education and Christ-centered care meet children navigating displacement.

OMAR LEARNED HE IS NOT ALONE — AND THAT TRUTH CHANGED EVERYTHING.

Maureen

FOUND HER VOICE

Maureen* was orphaned at a young age and raised by her elderly grandmother in a rural Kenyan community. Her grandmother, who was ill and partially blind, loved her deeply but struggled to provide the stability and protection Maureen needed. In a community where harmful practices such as female genital mutilation and exploiting children into marriage were widely accepted, girls were often valued only for the bride price they might bring. With limited protection at home and mounting pressure from predatory cultural practices, Maureen was at risk of losing her education — and her voice — before she had the chance to grow strong.

When she entered Kids Alive Kenya’s Karundas Residential Program in 2016, she was timid and withdrawn. Her quietness was more than shyness. Having grown up in an environment where she had no voice, Maureen had internalized that she was worthless. Even when she knew the answers in class at Hall Mead School, she was silent. Her academic struggles reflected something deeper — she thought she did not matter.

At Karundas and Hall Mead, Maureen encountered steady, holistic care. Through trauma-informed teaching, counseling, mentorship, and consistent spiritual discipleship, she began to experience stability. Caregivers introduced her to the love of Christ — not as an abstract idea, but as a defining truth that called her into a relationship with a Heavenly Father. Slowly, she began to believe she was cherished and created with purpose.

As her confidence grew, so did her performance. She completed primary school in 2022, advanced through Junior Secondary School by 2025, and entered Senior Secondary School in 2026 — milestones that had once seemed impossible for her.

But the transformation extended beyond academics. Maureen's leadership calling emerged. She has served as Games Captain, Dining Hall Captain, and Head Girl. She participates in handball and leads devotions and worship at church. The girl who once shrank back now stands firm for what is right and leads others with courage.

The impact extended into her family at home. After many visits and conversations, her grandmother's perspective has shifted. Education is now embraced, and the cycle that once threatened Maureen's future is being interrupted.

Today, Maureen aspires to become an advocate for rights of girls and women. Her life reflects Proverbs 31:8-9: "Speak up for those who cannot speak for themselves... defend the rights of the poor and needy."

THE GIRL WHO WAS ONCE AT RISK OF BEING SILENCED HAS FOUND HER VOICE. NOW, SHE IS USING IT TO SHAPE A DIFFERENT FUTURE.

Monica

IS SEEN AND PROTECTED

*pseudonym for safety

When Monica* arrived at the Kids Alive Center for Justice, she was 16 years old and carrying the weight of profound trauma. After experiencing sexual abuse within her home, she was unable to remain with her immediate family and was moved between relatives' houses—each situation marked by instability and risk. Her education was disrupted with the frequent moving, and by the time she came into our care, she was no longer in school.

YET EVEN IN THE MIDST OF HARDSHIP, MONICA CARRIED A QUIET RESILIENCE.

From the beginning, she engaged wholeheartedly in therapy—showing up consistently and demonstrating a willingness to understand her experiences and learn healthy ways to process her pain. Through ongoing psychosocial support, she began rebuilding a sense of safety and control in her life. She learned how to manage difficult emotions, identify trusted adults, and establish boundaries. Step by step, healing began to take root.

Faith also became an important part of her journey. Through daily devotions and time in God's Word, Monica began to rediscover her identity—not defined by what had happened to her, but by who she is in Christ. Over time, her confidence grew. She began leading devotions for younger girls in the home—something she once said she could never imagine herself doing. Today, she speaks of prayer with assurance and trusts that God hears her.

When Monica was ready, she returned to school. Despite the time she had missed, her determination was evident. By the end of her first term back, she ranked ninth out of 35 students in her class—a remarkable achievement that reflects both her strength and renewed hope for the future.

In partnership with social welfare, a safe and supportive family placement was identified with her aunt. As preparations for reunification took place, Monica confidently shared the coping strategies she would continue using to navigate challenges and protect herself from abuse. On the day she left Kids Alive, she felt both sadness in saying goodbye to friends and excitement about returning to family, where she was welcomed home with warmth.

With continued support from her family and Kids Alive, Monica is moving forward—continuing her education and stepping into the next chapter of her life with courage and confidence.

MONICA IS NOT DEFINED BY TRAUMA. SHE IS ALIVE IN CHRIST, SEEN, PROTECTED, AND RESTORED.

Luana

IS HEARD AND BELIEVED

*pseudonym for safety

Before Luana* ever arrived at our center, both she and her mother were living in the aftermath of sexual violence from multiple abusers. The experience left them carrying deep fear and uncertainty about what the future could hold. Wanting to keep her daughter safe from further harm, her mother made the difficult decision to keep Luana close at home. Fear turned what began as protection into isolation —school was disrupted, friendships faded, and their world grew smaller with each passing day.

In 2024, the two connected with Kids Alive through alternative education classes and vocational workshops in Manchay. They came as a mother and daughter working to build a stronger future—seeking skills, stability, and renewed opportunity. As they participated, Luana’s mother courageously stepped forward to share that her daughter was enduring abuse and needed deeper support.

When Luana arrived at our center, she was 16 years old. She and her mother carried visible exhaustion—the kind that settles in after prolonged fear. A survivor of sexual violence, Luana also lives with a mild intellectual disability, which made it harder for her to fully understand and express what she had experienced.

Trauma had shaken her sense of safety, interrupted her education, and diminished her confidence.

From the first meeting, our team committed to walking alongside Luana and her family with dignity and steady care. Before any plan was developed, she was given something essential: the opportunity to be heard and believed.

Through trauma-informed psychological support — both individual and group — Luana began processing her experiences in ways suited to her learning needs. She participated in The Voice of My Heart, a creative expression group that helped her communicate emotions that had once felt impossible to name. Slowly, her confidence began to grow.

Restoration also meant rebuilding daily life. Luana enrolled in and successfully completed a sewing workshop, strengthening her sense of accomplishment and independence. She returned to school and regained access to essential services that had previously been interrupted. Structure, routine, and safe relationships began replacing isolation and fear.

Her journey also included the pursuit of justice with multiple abusers. With coordinated legal and psychosocial advocacy, one abuser received a civil reparation sentence. For another perpetrator, legal proceedings continue with a request for a 23-year prison sentence. These steps represent more than legal outcomes – they affirm Luana’s dignity and reinforce her right to protection.

Today, Luana is moving forward with greater emotional stability, practical skills, and renewed hope. Her faith has become a source of strength, reminding her that she is not alone and that her life has purpose.

LUANA’S STORY IS A LIVING TESTIMONY THAT WHEN JUSTICE THAT HEALS IS COMBINED WITH RELATIONSHIPS THAT RESTORE, SILENCE CAN BE BROKEN, DIGNITY CAN BE RECLAIMED, AND A DIFFERENT FUTURE CAN BEGIN.

Rachel

*pseudonym for safety

Rachel* is 10 years old and has lived in Kids Alive Haiti's Safe Haven since she was three. After losing both of her parents, she entered the Haiti Children's Village when it became clear she was not receiving the care and stability she needed from extended family. Today, she is known for her cheerful and polite spirit, bringing warmth to those around her. Yet for several years, school was a persistent struggle.

Rachel showed little interest in classroom activities and often resisted engaging in lessons. Despite her teachers' efforts, she repeated the same grade three times. What appeared on the surface as disengagement was, in reality, a child needing more individualized support.

At Kids Alive Haiti, learning challenges are never treated as simple academic failure. They are met with collaboration and care.

A support team was formed around Rachel. Her teacher at the Kids Alive School implemented support tailored specifically to her learning needs. Lessons were adapted, expectations recalibrated, and teaching methods refined to help her grasp foundational concepts at her own pace. At the same time, social workers provided individualized psychosocial follow-up, creating space for Rachel to build confidence and process challenges. Her caregivers offered daily supervision and consistent encouragement, reinforcing the value of perseverance in her educational journey. Together, teacher, social worker, and family worked as one team.

By the end of the first quarter this year, a meaningful shift had taken place. Rachel was admitted into the second grade earned grades that showed significant improvement. More importantly, her engagement changed. She began participating more consistently in lessons and showed greater willingness to learn.

This progress did not happen overnight. It was the result of steady, holistic support – educational adjustments, emotional care, and consistent encouragement working together.

In Haiti, where instability and educational barriers often disrupt a child’s schooling, Rachel is experiencing something different: consistency, structure, and patient investment. Continued academic assistance and close monitoring remain in place to help her maintain momentum through the remainder of the school year.

RACHEL’S STORY IS A REMINDER THAT WHEN CHILDREN ARE SURROUNDED BY LOVE, STRUCTURE, AND COLLABORATIVE CARE, GROWTH BECOMES POSSIBLE. WHAT ONCE FELT LIKE A CYCLE OF REPETITION IS NOW A PATH FORWARD. AND STEP BY STEADY STEP, RACHEL IS MOVING AHEAD.

Valeria

*pseudonym for safety

Valeria* is 15 years old and has been at Oasis since July 2025. She is quiet and observant, yet carries a deep inner strength, curiosity, and a strong sense of right and wrong — of justice.

But eight years of her childhood were marked by profound sexual and physical abuse.

Beginning at just six years old, Valeria endured repeated abuse by her father. For nearly half her life, violence was her normal. Instead of protection and care, she experienced fear, isolation, and control. She was kept out of school, forced to work during the day, and cut off from the outside world. By the time she arrived at Oasis at age 14, she had never attended school and had little understanding of life beyond survival.

Valeria was brought to Oasis, the temporary protection home of Kids Alive Guatemala. She arrived malnourished, developmentally behind, and deeply traumatized — not only from sustained violence, but also from years of verbal abuse and isolation. She struggled with depression and barely spoke during her first days at Oasis.

MERCY MORALES, VALERIA'S PSYCHOLOGIST, SHARED, "IN ALL OF MY TIME AS A PSYCHOLOGIST AND THE PLACES I'VE WORKED, I'VE NEVER HEARD A STORY LIKE HERS."

And yet, little by little, healing began.

Through consistent therapy, Valeria is processing her trauma in a safe, supportive environment. In the three caregivers at Oasis — her tías — she has found steady adults who walk with her daily, offering structure, encouragement, and safe relationships.

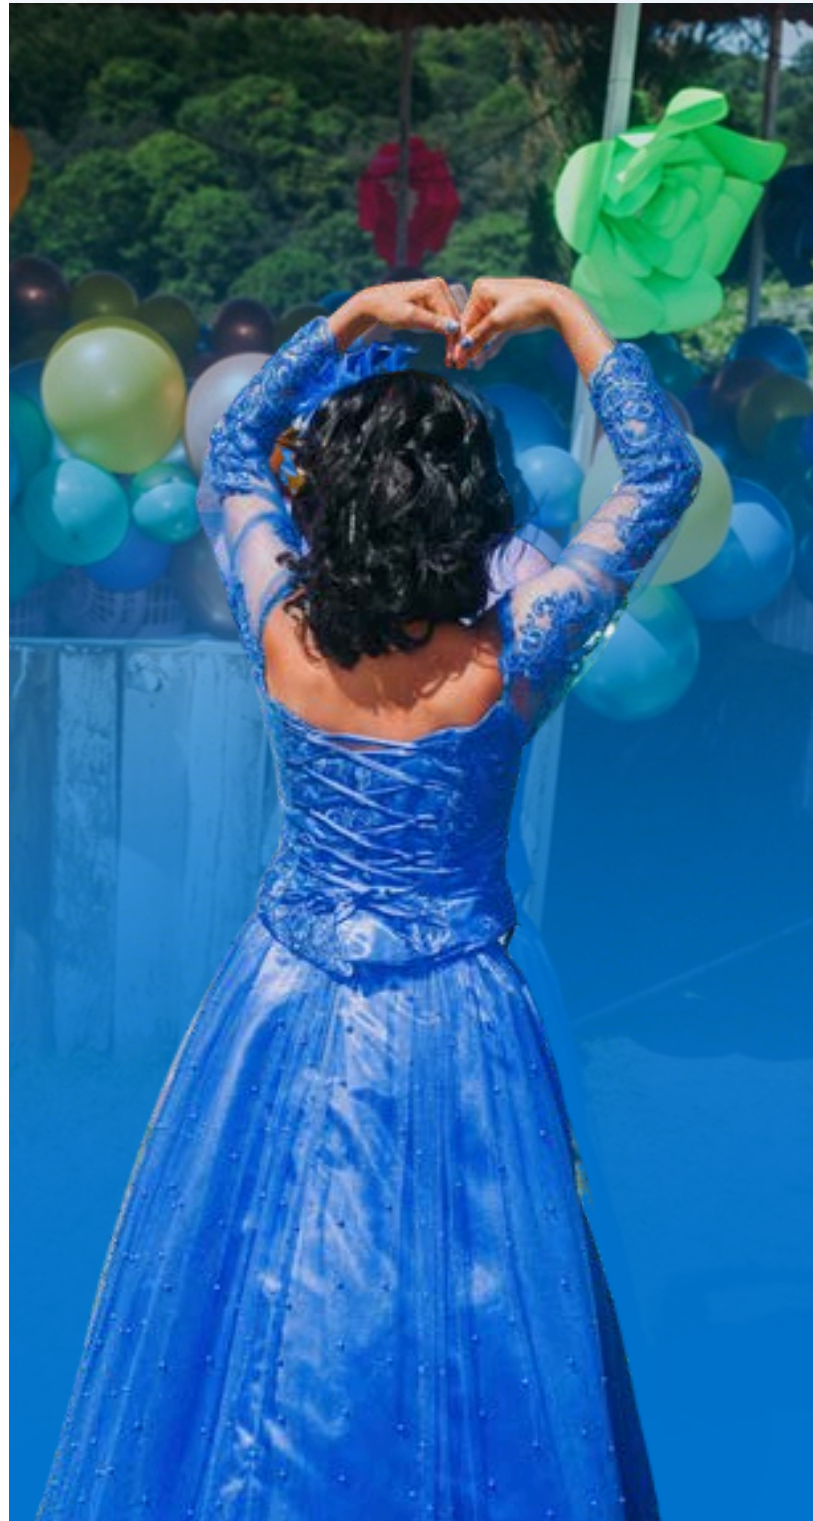

For the first time in her life, she enrolled in school and now receives specialized educational support from Kids Alive Guatemala teachers. Though learning foundational literacy as a teenager requires perseverance, she continues to grow. Her prayer is that she will keep healing and develop strong reading and writing skills — foundations once denied to her.

Faith has become core to her restoration. She looks forward to weekly devotions, and during Kids Alive Guatemala’s first camp in October, she was one of 17 girls who chose to invite Jesus into her heart. She is beginning to understand that her identity is not defined by what was done to her.

In November 2025, Valeria celebrated her milestone fifteenth birthday, surrounded by the girls in her home and honored with a Quince Años celebration, she experienced joy and belonging — a reclaiming of childhood.

Today, Valeria is healing and growing. She’s even learning to care for others at Oasis. She speaks up when something feels unjust and runs eagerly onto the soccer field, embracing life as a child again. Her story is not over.

BUT TODAY, SHE IS SAFE. SHE IS KNOWN. SHE IS BEING RESTORED.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC TRANSITION

After more than three decades of shared ministry, Kids Alive International and our Dominican Republic team have entered a season of transition. Following prayerful conversations and thoughtful planning, the Dominican Republic leadership has chosen to establish an independent organization. This step allows both ministries to pursue their distinct callings with greater focus while continuing the shared commitment to serving vulnerable children and families.

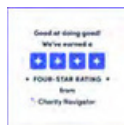

In recent years, Kids Alive has increasingly focused on its global calling to serve abused and vulnerable children through trauma-informed care, family strengthening, community transformation, and justice initiatives. At the same time, the Dominican Republic ministries have faithfully continued their work through holistic Christian education, residential care, healthcare, and discipleship programs. As both ministries have grown, it became clear that operating independently will allow each organization to steward its resources and mission more effectively.

This transition will take place over a six-month period, with completion expected by June 2026. Throughout this process, all programs, staff, and services for children and families in the Dominican Republic will continue without interruption. We celebrate the strong leadership and faithful ministry the DR team has built over the past 30 years and remain deeply grateful for our partnership. While our organizational structures are changing, our shared heart to see children and families flourish remains strong.

With gratitude and blessing, we celebrate this next chapter and the impact still to come.
